Synopsis

Prince Siegfried arrives for his 21st birthday celebration at the palace courtyards. Here, he finds Court Ladies of the royal families and Royal Residents dancing and celebrating, while the young girls are anxiously seeking his attention.

His mother, the Queen presents him with a crossbow and reminds that his marriage must be quickly arranged.

Prince Siegfried takes his crossbow and goes hunting. He comes across a peaceful spot by an enchanted lake with Graceful Swans. While Prince Siegfried watches the beautiful sight, he spots a beautiful swan with a crown on its head.

As dusk falls, the swan with the crown turns into the most beautiful young woman he has ever seen. Her name is Odette, the Swan Queen.

Odette informs the young Prince Siegfried about an Evil Sorcerer, Von Rothbart, who happens to be disguised as Prince Siegfried's mentor. It was Rothbart who turned her and the other girls into Graceful Swans. The lake was formed by the tears of their parents' weeping. She tells him the only way the spell can be broken is if a man, pure in heart, pledges his love to her.

Prince Siegfried is interrupted by the Evil Sorcerer. He takes Odette from Prince Siegfried's embrace and commands all of the Graceful Swans to dance upon the lake and its shore so that Prince Siegfried cannot chase them. Prince Siegfried is left all alone on the shore of Swan Lake.

Synopsis

The next day during the formal celebration at the Royal Hall, Prince Siegfried is presented with many prospective Princesses from many countries. Although the ladies are worthy of his attention, he cannot stop thinking about Odette.

The grand celebration consists of Spanish, Neapolitan (Italy), Hungarian, Mazurka (Poland) dancers as well Baby Jesters from the Court.

While Prince Siegfried dances, trumpets announce the arrival of Von Rothbart, the Evil Sorcerer. He brings his daughter, Odile, on whom he has cast a spell to appear as Odette. Prince Siegfried is captivated by her beauty and dances with the Imposter.

Unknown to Prince Siegfried, the real Odette is watching him from a window. Prince Siegfried soon confesses his love to Odile and proposes marriage, thinking that she is Odette.

Horrified, Odette flees into the night. Prince Siegfried sees the real Odette running from the window and realizes his mistake. Upon his discovery, Von Rothbart reveals to Prince Siegfried the true appearance of his daughter Odile. Prince Siegfried quickly leaves the party and chases after Odette.
